simple credit derivatives on the exchange.

Buy long Define future. Spot gold. NIFTY ↑ gold ↑ oil ↑

- Derivative is a financial instrument whose value depends on the values of other variables (called as underlying). The underlying can be almost anything – stock, index, commodity, weather etc. May be a time will come when the derivative can be on mood swing of important people ☺
- Market makers are traders on the exchange who makes market in certain securities. They act like a buyer for the sellers in a down market and act like sellers for the buyers in the up-market, there job is to provide liquidity in the market. They earn on the bid-ask spread. Reduce
- Spot contract is the price of the underlying for immediate delivery.
- Long position – A person is said to have a long position when he has bought the financial instrument.
- Short position – When you sell the financial instrument you have short position.
- Bid price – This is the price at which the dealer(market) is willing to buy from you
- Offer (Ask) price – This is the price which you will have to pay when you buy in the market/
- Bid-offer spread – The difference between the bid price and the ask price. The higher the bid-ask spread, the lower the liquidity. bid ask
- Hedgers – These are market participants who enter into the contract to protect against some risk.
- Speculators – These participants try to bet on the future price direction and make money when their bets are right. ↑
- Arbitrageurs - They take both long and short position in similar financial instruments to lock in a profit. ↺

AIM: Differentiate between options, forwards, and futures contracts.

- Option contracts have contingent claims, they are traded both on exchange and OTC market
 - There are two type of options based on the characteristics of payment
 - Call option gives the buyer the right to purchase the underlying in the future at a particular fixed
