idea, don't you? Home for the way home. If you're visiting a friend or family member, this is a great way to spend a few hours together. The concept is that it's not enough to just visit, it's important to acknowledge that all of our lives intertwine in some way. I met Nicole through her husband, Steve, and I have visited her and her family several times in the last two years. She is lovely and a great cook, but Steve and I have actually become friends and it's quite true that there is a thread that runs between us. When we have time together it's easy to call each other up and find out what's going on in each other's lives. The way home is a weekend getaway that also happens to be a vacation. Nicole wanted to take me somewhere special this weekend so we stayed in a local bed and breakfast. I took the opportunity to sketch out a few of the people in the guest rooms. It was a fun weekend! We went on a lovely tour of her favorite sites. (we also did this one year during our vacation here) She and I chatted about many things over dinner and then finally went for a walk to see some of the sights along the tow path. I remember so many things from my childhood on the towpath 82157476af
